

Prophecies for December 2, 2007

The Lord is showing me a vision that I know is for me and I can only assume it probably applies to others, that door is opening, the door to our heart. There's so much healing that we're asking for, that we're in need of, physical, mental, emotional, spiritual. And until we can open up the doors---I can literally see--- a heart with golden doors opening. Until we can let the Son of Joy in, the Dancer of Dances in, the Lord of Lords in, will He be able to heal us. And we know that He's the Great Healer, that He can do what people can't. What we can't see, He can do beyond that. But we're the ones that have to open the doors of our hearts and let Him in, so He can do that work in us.

(2 Chronicles 20:15-21 NKJV)

And he said, "Listen, all you of Judah and you inhabitants of Jerusalem, and you, King Jehoshaphat! Thus says the Lord to you: Do not be afraid nor dismayed because of this great multitude, for the battle is not yours, but God's. Tomorrow go down against them. They will surely come up by the Ascent of Ziz, and you will find them at the end of the brook before the Wilderness of Jeruel. You will not need to fight in this battle. Position yourselves, stand still and see the salvation of the Lord, who is with you, O Judah and Jerusalem! Do not fear or be dismayed; tomorrow go out against them, for the Lord is with you." And Jehoshaphat bowed his head with his face to the ground, and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem bowed before the Lord, worshiping the Lord. Then the Levites of the children of the Kohathites and of the children of the Korahites stood up to praise the Lord God of Israel with voices loud and high. So they rose early in the morning and went out into the Wilderness of Tekoa; and as they went out, Jehoshaphat stood and said, "Hear me, O Judah and you inhabitants of Jerusalem: Believe in the Lord your God, and you shall be established; believe His Prophets, and you shall prosper." And when he had consulted with the people, he appointed those who should sing to the Lord, and who should praise the beauty of holiness, as they went out before the army and were saying: "Praise the Lord, for His mercy endures forever."

Praise of the Lord is raised. The power of the enemy is brought down.

I feel like the Lord is saying that every once in a while He'll show us something that He's doing; like Miranda and Deborah and Jacob and Sarah. These things that we see that could happen and then He steps in and we see what has happened and He's to get the glory for all that. But He's letting me know this morning that there are so many things that we don't see each and every day that He steps in and says, "No this is mine; this is my sheep, you can't have that." And that we're to know and have rest in the fact that He has everything in control.

I just have a feeling, too, that there is no shame here today.

"What I heard when praying in our church on December 4, 2007."

We have completed twelve years; twelve is the number of completion. We have completed the first phase. The building of the church is symbolic of what the Lord is doing in His people. The foundation has been laid; Jesus is the cornerstone. The second phase is about to begin. However, never lose sight of the importance of the foundation. Cracks can happen. The foundation is our children. Stay mindful of them. Some are ready for solid food. I will give you discernment --- PRAY. 1 Peter 2:1-12.

December 9, 2007 – Prophecies

Because we all know now that that's Rebecca's song, (His Banner Over Me is Love), I think this might be a good time to share about a couple of dreams she's been in; one about two nights ago and one several weeks ago: I came into this classroom and she was there, which even then struck me as odd, because even then, my first thought was, what's she doing in the classroom, she's dead. The professor's asking us to turn in our work. I'm in the class and you were supposed to have brought your work. I'm madly going through my bag, because I don't have any work. What am I going to do? And everyone else is saying, "I'm almost finished. I'm almost finished." The professor says, "Either you're finished or you're not." And Rebecca has her work. Rebecca goes up to the front and she does her problem on the board, because she's finished her work. Well, we all know what that means.

I think two nights ago I had this dream. Clearly it was Sunday that it must of happened. We must have been taking a field trip to heaven, because we were trying to leave. We were trying to decide who should get in which van and who should get in which car. It seemed to matter very importantly who got in each van and who got in each car. I thought it was really odd, because Father Nick did not want Rebecca to get in his car. This struck me as odd. And Amanda and I went to find her, because she was still in the house. She was upstairs looking at all these pretty things. And I was telling her we've got to go now, and she says, "Why do we have to go?" I said, "Because some of us have homework."

So that's what we're doing here, we're taking a little fieldtrip to heaven. And some of still have homework. I don't know if that comforts anybody else, but it helped me a little bit. Amanda made it clear to me that the van thing was really our fieldtrip to heaven that we take every week.
